

THE REAL-LIFE IMPACT OF CALMER CANINE

GRANITE

Before Calmer Canine, Granite's owner couldn't even shop for groceries without coming home to find bloody drool and other distressing signs of his attempts to escape his crate. After using Calmer Canine, Granite was still anxiety-free without medication a year later.

CHARGER

Charger would dig into his bedding and drag the laundry around the basement. He even broke a tooth trying to escape his crate. After four weeks of treatment, Charger could be left alone without any problems or destruction.

COOPER

Cooper stared out the window and at the door, whining and barking incessantly. After using Calmer Canine, his barking went from 855 barks an hour to 0.

CALMER CANINE™ Separation Anxiety Treatment

WHEN YOUR DOG MISSES YOU TOO MUCH

Separation anxiety affects 1 in 7 dogs

Dogs that are overly attached to their owners become distressed and exhibit behavior problems when they're home alone or when they anticipate being left alone. Some dogs will bark incessantly. Others may have potty accidents, destroy items or try to escape. Separation anxiety has a huge impact on the lives of these dogs—and their families.

What's an owner to do?

Many owners looking for a drug-free solution try calming wraps, supplements, or pheromones, but these solutions produce mixed results. None of them have proven to have lasting effects. Behavior modification has proven to make a dramatic difference, but it requires a lot of time, patience, and expense.

Calmer Canine is different

Many owners have tried multiple solutions, but nothing truly helped—until they tried Calmer Canine.

HELPING YOUR DOG STAY CALM

An anxious dog can't help the way they feel

In dogs with separation anxiety, the area of the brain responsible for processing emotions and detecting fear goes into overdrive when they can't be with their owners. It's the equivalent of a full-blown panic attack in a human.

Calmer Canine restores emotional balance to a brain in turmoil

Calmer Canine's treatment is invisible, sensation-free, and very safe. Just two 15-minute treatments are needed each day for 4 to 6 weeks. Your dog simply wears their vest and device and goes about their day. Treatment is given while you're home, not while you're away.

Calmer Canine helps anxious dogs regain and maintain calm with just two 15-minute at-home treatments a day.

Calmer Canine helps reduce inflammation, boost production of "feel good" chemicals, and restore natural balance to a dog's brain.

WHERE TECHNOLOGY MEETS LOVE

Science has proven that a powerful link exists between anxiety and inflammation in the brain. An anxious brain is out of balance—with overactive brain cells—producing harmful substances causing inflammation and cell death.

Utilizing a specifically tuned microcurrent signal delivered by the device placed over the dog's head, Calmer Canine stimulates the brain's own ability to reduce inflammation and produce beneficial "feel good" chemicals (like endorphins)—restoring natural balance, bringing your dog back to a calm state.

Calmer Canine's treatment, based on FDA-cleared technology currently in use to treat people with anxiety, depression, and ADHD, is much more desirable than other treatments that don't have lasting effects, including medications with unwanted "dopey dog" side effects.
